Food Safety Training and Certifications (FoSTaC) Trainings Highlights

Food Safety Standard Authority India, New Delhi ((FSSAI)) has recommended all Central License/ State License food businesses to have at least one trained and FoSTaC certified food safety supervisor against every 25 food handlers. Food safety is shared responsibility where industry, government, institutions, producers and consumers can play their role. School of Food Technology is an approved “Training Partner” of “FoSTaC” under FSSAI to conduct these mandatory food safety trainings and recommend certification of candidate to FoSTaC. SoFT has organized 25 FoSTaC trainings for students, food industry delegate and caterers to ensure capacity building of food safety supervisors either for execution or entry in food business across the country. The successful organization of FoSTaC training to food industry stakeholders for ensuring safe food production is manifested as an incredible activity of the institution.
